New York Stock Market

NEW YORK, September 8.—The speculative temper still showed itself in a high, strong sensitiveness to news from the bedside of E. H. Harriman and the various price fluctuations of stocks during the day were the faithful reflection of nothing but the advices which filtered through from the house on the top of the Ramapo Mountains into the regions of the sinancial markets. The news was exceedingly meagre, much of it vaguely outlined and some of it contradictory. The price inovement therefore, was confused and subject to shifts of the current, with subsidence between times to a condition of practically stagnation in an attitude of waiting for more definite developments. The limited volume of the transactions suggested that large operators are, as a rule, keeping out of the market with the purpose of letting it find itself.

transactions suggested that large operators are, as a rule, keeping out of the market with the purpose of letting it find itself.

Selling in a Circle.

The day's dealings were clearly made up in large part of professional transactions of secondary importance. The shifting tide of the market made it ideal for trading purposes for those who were agile enough to follow it and a few traders, by working in and out many times, contributed much to the apparent volume, following this process, once described by the sick man at Arden as "selling in a circle." That the condition of the financier was regarded as grave is obvious from the close attention paid to all news on the subject and to the growing disposition amongst financial associates to recognize the fact with more candor in the discussion for publication. It was considered that this policy was calculated to lessen the danger of shock from possible bad news. It was pointed out also that the absence of the guiding head of the Harriman properties from close application to their direction had been long enough new to demonstrate the capacity of the organization to run with the substitute forces provided.

The length of time in which Mr. Harrimar's precarious health had been subject of public knowledge and discussion and even of active speculative operations in the stock market makes it certain that the speculation has fulfilled at least partly, its normal and legitimate function of anticipation of possible contingencies. Insurance against the future is sought in all such cases. This line of discussion fostered the growing inclination to question whether speculative markets were not lending undue importance to the immediate news feature of the sickbed bulterins.

Little attention was given to any the second of the sickbed bulterins.

Pelces Advance.

The character of the crop news for some time past has paved the way for the showing of the government crop report published to-day. The fact that both corn and wheat advanced after the publication of the report was taken as evidence that the previous rise in prices had not adequately discounted the falling off in condition of corn and spring wheat. The heavy deterioration in the condition of corn during August serves to impair the hopes of a humper crop for that cereal and the spring wheat condition at the harvest gives point to recent warnings from James J. Hill, of the Great Northern Railroad against over-estimating that crop. The bearing of this on the interests of railroad shareholders received an illustration in the suggestions of conservatism as a desirable policy in the matter of increases or resumption of dividends in cases under recent discussion.

to 14c. Oats closed firm, out provided irregular. General disposition to await the government figures of the new crop of whaet in the United States caused duliness in the wheat pit through the entire day. The ship brought out quite general demand in the final gains of the session and caused fair advances in all deliveries. The close was strong at almost the top. December ranged between 94% 294%c. and $57s.c., and closed of the control of strong at almost the top. December ranged between 94% 994½c. and $575.c. and closed at 55% 95%.c.

Expectations of a bullish showing of the government report on the new crop of corn caused firmiess in the corn market 41rly in the dray, but later a weak tone developed. The market, however, gained fresh strength following the publication of the official figures. Trading was active during the final fiteen minutes, and prices advanced more than 1c. for all deliveries. The range of December for the day was between 57% 957%c. and 53%c. The market closed strong and only a triffe below the best figures of the day, with December at 53%c.

Trade in the cats pit was exceedingly dull throughout the entire day. The market closed firm, with prices ¼ 6%c. higher.

The feature o ftrading in provisions was a mild flurry in September pork, due to covering by shorts. At the close prices were 10c. lower to 15c. higher, the latter being in September pork.

tics was a depressing factor in the other markets.

American securities opened duil and slightly below parity. Trading was limited during the early hours, but we few stocks made small gains. At nooth the market was steady, with prices ranging from 11-2 above to 11-4 below yesterday's New York closing. In the early afternoon the Harriman and other leading issues were supported, and a firmer tone prevailed. The New York opening caused further improvement, but then the market eased somewhat and the close was quiet.
